Gemini Space Tag Awaits Go-Ahead

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Gemini 6 astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford today once again sought the go-ahead for launch Wednesday on their third try to score the world's first rendezvous in space.

They faced a decision from two different meetings that took on added significance with the finding Monday of a plastic stopper mistakenly left in a vital part of the engine assembly of the Titan 2 booster rocket.

An Air Force flight safety review board was scheduled to meet first to determine that the jinxed rocket is finally ready to send Gemini 6 on its historic chase in space after Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell.

With the booster clearance, Gemini's top officials were scheduled to give the signal for the start of final preparations for the 8:37 a.m. EST Wednesday blastoff.

Weather A-OK

The weatherman already gave a tentative go-ahead for a launch try Wednesday.

Schirra and Stafford had the day off Monday, but it took an around-the-clock effort by engineers and technicians to correct the Titan rocket's latest problem.

The trouble turned up Monday morning as engineers examined the results from Sunday's abortive launch attempt. The Titan's engine fired for only 12 seconds before being automatically shut down, but the data from the brief spurt indicated something was seriously wrong.

The trouble was traced to a gas generator that develops the hot gases needed to pump fuel to the rocket's ignition chamber. The generator was taken apart and the trouble was found — someone had left a plastic dust cover on the end of a fuel opening when the engine was cleaned five months ago at the Martin Co. plant in Baltimore.

Either Plug Scrubs

Dineen said the plastic plug would have caused the engines to shut off before liftoff Sunday if an electrical plug had not been dislodged from the base of the 90-foot rocket first.

If Gemini 6 is finally launched in time Wednesday, officials said it could catch up with the Gemini 7 spacecraft as the two capsules zipped along at 17,500 miles an hour over the Mariana Islands in the Pacific — five hours and 49 minutes after launch.

But even if the launch is missed Wednesday, Schirra and Stafford will have more chances Thursday, Friday and possibly Saturday if Gemini 7 is kept up an extra day.

Art Emphasized

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner signed an executive order bill Monday requiring that one half of one per cent of the cost of new city buildings be spent on art work, such as sculpture, murals and ornate fountains.

Viet Nam High On Agenda For NATO Meeting

PARIS (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk told America's European allies today that Europe's fate may be decided on the battlefields of Viet Nam.

In a hard-hitting address to the North Atlantic (NATO) Council, Rusk asked, "How can you expect Communism to accept the credibility of the American commitment in Viet Nam if they have reason to doubt it in Viet Nam?"

He warned that the European NATO countries have "a large interest" in the United States commitment in Viet Nam.

It was one of the strongest speeches Rusk ever has delivered to the NATO Council, which opened a three-day session here this morning. He laid it squarely on the line that the United States is determined to honor its commitments in Viet Nam to the bitter end. He appealed to them for understanding of this position.

Rusk told the council that Communist China so far has shown itself completely hostile to peace talks. He said the United States and Communist Chinese ambassadors in Warsaw are about to hold their 128th meeting. But he described the outlook as "not promising."

He said the Red Chinese have made it clear that they will reject any peace talks as long as the United States continues backing Formosa and maintaining its military position there.

Burden On U.S.

Rusk said the United States could use any number of doctors, teachers, engineers and other personnel in Viet Nam. But he made no actual appeal or plea for such aid.

He said it is a big burden and the United States has room there for all sorts of people. Rusk did not mention the possibility of troops. But an American source said the United States certainly would welcome such aid.

Rusk warned of the difficulties ahead. The American people he said, will be called upon to bear a heavy burden in the coming year.

Space Doctor's Plane Missing

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — A "maximum effort" search got underway at dawn today in New Mexico and Colorado for a missing plane carrying the chief medical officer of the nation's space program.

Dr. W. Randolph Lovelace II, 57, his wife and their pilot disappeared Sunday on a flight from Aspen, Colo., to Albuquerque. Dr. Lovelace, who loved flying as much as medicine, supervised the medical tests which led to selection of the nation's first 13 astronauts.

The Civil Air Patrol in Albuquerque said today 15 to 18 planes left Albuquerque about a.m. MST today and said 22 more pilots were being briefed. "More planes are pouring in," the CAP spokesman said, "and it will be a maximum effort."

The CAP spokesman said the Air Force also would be involved in the search.

Dr. Lovelace, director of space medicine for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), left Aspen shortly after noon Sunday in a white and gold Beechcraft Traveler.

The pilot, employed by the Cutter Flying Service of Albuquerque, did not file a flight plan.

9 SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

State Of Union Message To Be Issued By GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican congressional leaders are tentatively planning to issue their own "state of the union" message to lay alongside the one President Johnson submits to Congress next month.

This will be the next major policy pronouncement coming from the GOP after publication of series of reports on federal-state relations approved Monday by the Republican Coordinating Committee.

Republican congressional leaders are members of the coordinating committee which held its fourth session here Monday. Other members are former presidential nominees, governors and representatives of the GOP National Committee.

Using gentle language, the committee unanimously approved a compromise resolution condemning extremist groups without naming any organization. Governors on the committee said that as far as they were concerned the resolution was intended to include the John Birch Society.

The resolution endorsed a statement by GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss urging Republicans to stay out of "radical" organizations trying to use the GOP for their own ends. In that same statement, Bliss called Robert H. W. Welch, head of the John Birch Society, an "irresponsible radical."

Among other things, the coordinating committee also unanimously approved a statement calling for a "Kennedy-type quarantine" around North Viet Nam. The group was referring to the 1962 action of the late President John F. Kennedy to bar Soviet missiles from Cuba.

Soviets Boost A. N. Shelepin

MOSCOW (UPI) — Alexander N. Shelepin, a member of the Kremlin's "young guard," has moved into an important Communist Party post that could lead him someday to top power spot in the Soviet Union, informed sources said today.

The sources reported that Shelepin, long considered a rising star in Soviet politics, has taken over the duties of party secretary for organization and personnel as a result of last Thursday's Kremlin reshuffle.

Shelepin's new post would mean that he has the power to appoint or remove party officials throughout the Soviet Union. The Communist Party is the real power behind the government in this country.

It was not known last week whether Shelepin would be given the "organization department" job held by Nikolai V. Podgorny, who was elected to the largely ceremonial post of Soviet president.

But unofficial sources disclosed that Shelepin has won the job once held by Stalin himself under Lenin, by Frol Kozlov, former Premier Nikita Khrushchev's heir apparent and finally by Leonid I. Brezhnev before succeeding Khrushchev as party chief.

There was a large formal dinner scheduled at the White House tonight, but Ayub was not to have his one and only discussion of substance with Johnson until Wednesday at 5 p.m.

Government sources here used a variety of terms to forecast the expression of Johnson's displeasure with current Pakistani policies. But the President, instead of planning stern lecture, was more hopeful that a frank discussion of the Asian facts of life as the United States sees them might repair some of the differences between the two nations.

Johnson plans to meet in February with Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri. The President's position then is expected to be similar to his approach to Ayub—the United States does not intend to provide the arms for these two countries to use to fight each other over Kashmir.

Conferences with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard. Ayub was due for a formal welcome at the White House at 11 a.m. EST from Johnson, acting Secretary of State George W. Ball, Adm. David L. McDonald, chief of naval operations, and other officials.

For some time now the United States has been concerned by Pakistan's fight with India over Kashmir, by her increasing friendship with Red China, and by the officially supported anti-Americanism in a nation which has been one of the larger recipients of U.S. aid.

Johnson's discussions with Ayub were certain to reflect this concern as the chief executive moved into what was the busiest week of personal diplomacy thus far in his White House career.

After Ayub, Johnson meets later in the week with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, then holds a separate set of conferences with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

There was a large formal dinner scheduled at the White House tonight, but Ayub was not to have his one and only discussion of substance with Johnson until Wednesday at 5 p.m.

Marines Mopping Up Base Of Viet Cong

Hunt Continues For Regiment Of Communists

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Marines mopping up the Phuoc Valley, one time base camp for a Communist regiment, today found the mangled bodies of a dozen Viet Cong carrying Russian-made rifles, grenades and cartridge belts.

The Cong apparently were victims of a B52 bomber strike earlier today over the jungled mountain slopes 335 miles north of Saigon. It was the third consecutive day the Guam based B52s had pounded the region.

The Marines and government troops were in the seventh day of a search for the Communist regiment believed to have fled the valley. About 20 miles from the Dan Nang Airbase.

The Leathernecks have counted more than 200 bodies but hundreds more Communists were believed killed, many as they hid in huge caves and tunnels blasted by the 750 and 1,000-pound bombs from the Strategic Air Command B52s.

Enemy Ambushed

Two intense firefights were reported in the area today. A Marine patrol ambushed a Viet Cong unit by a small stream. After air power was called in the Americans counted eight Viet Cong bodies and estimated 15 others were wounded.

Another Leatherneck unit on nearby mountain slopes also killed eight Communists late this afternoon. Details of the skirmish were sketchy.

Authorities in Saigon disclosed today two American servicemen were killed Sunday night in a bloody barroom brawl in the waterfront section of the capital. One was stabbed in the heart and the other's neck was broken. Neither was identified.

Officials said a fight broke out in the saloon between four Vietnamese soldiers and three Americans. The government brawlers escaped but a fifth Vietnamese was being held for questioning, a spokesman said.

Tuy Hoa Battle

A company-sized element of government troops sustained heavy casualties today in a three-hour battle with Communist forces northwest of the provincial capital of Tuy Hoa, on the coast about 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

The Viet Cong slipped back into the jungle when reinforcements arrived, a spokesman said.

In the Mekong Delta south of Saigon, a government operation was ended Monday in Vinh Binh Province. Authorities said 154 Viet Cong were known dead and 14 captured.

In still another operation, government troops laid a pair of ambushes in the countryside near Saigon Monday night and early today and killed 34 Viet Cong.

Stubblefield and DeLonghery had been described as armed with prison-made knives and "considered dangerous."

The three, all workers in the prison hospital escaped by breaking through a false ceiling in a hospital room and lowering themselves from the roof with a homemade grappling hook and nylon rope.

Radio Antenna To Orbit Earth Planned At UM

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — A six-mile wide, web-like radio antenna to orbit the earth will be built by the University of Michigan, the school announced today.

The project, financed by a $100,000 National Aeronautics and Space Administration grant, is designed to provide astronomers with answers to fundamental questions about the universe, such as how old celestial objects are and how much matter exists in the universe.

The structure, to be orbited by a Saturn rocket, would consist of one central satellite and four subsatellites connected by fishline-thin nylon filaments, all resembling a six-mile wide spider web.

STATE HEALTH Department officials have advised caution in the use of "ice balls," brightly colored plastic balls designed to be used in cooling drinks. William B. Hope, a technician with the Arkansas Health Department, displays some of the balls, which are filled with water to be frozen in refrigerators. 'Lost' Trainees Back-Track On Mountain Hike

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — The eight young Peace Corps trainees set out on a hike through snow-covered mountains expertly equipped for their adventure.

The only thing that went wrong with the proposed 35-mile hike, said one volunteer, was, "We were lost almost from the moment we started."

The object of the exercise was to train the eight men and women for the rigors of overseas Peace Corps assignments. But after three days in the wilds groping through knee-deep snow, the group by a 7-1 vote decided, "To hell with going over those mountains."

The four men and four women trainees were found Monday while retracing their steps through the central New Mexico mountains. They went back to their classes today to reinforce their map reading skills.

The eight trainees spent what may have been the most grueling days of their lives wandering aimlessly through rocky canyons, over wind-swept ridges and across icy mountain peaks.

They were warmly dressed and well equipped with maps, compasses, sleeping bags and dehydrated rations to last three days. All survived the ordeal without injury.

"We didn't feel lost," said Michael Mitchell of the Bronx, New York. "We just didn't know where we were."

Others in the group included: Jane Whitmore, 25, Manhasset, N.Y.; Linda West, 28, Hurst, Tex.; Judith Johnson, 21, Pleasantville, N.Y.; Thomas Jacobs, 23, Columbus, Ohio; William Pastreich, 24, New York City; Bruce McCracken, 25, Wellesley Hills, Mass., and Susan Selbin, 22, St. Paul, Minn.

The third escapee, Edward Loney, 29, Flint, was captured before he could get off the prison grounds.

Stubblefield and DeLonghery had been described as armed with prison-made knives and "considered dangerous."

The three, all workers in the prison hospital escaped by breaking through a false ceiling in a hospital room and lowering themselves from the roof with a homemade grappling hook and nylon rope.

Caution Urged By Lansing In 'Ice Ball' Use

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan health officials advise caution in the use of imported plastic "ice balls" that reportedly may contain contaminated water.

The State Health Department has undertaken an analysis of water in four samples of the colorful, water-filled plastic balls. Results of the tests are expected to be available Wednesday.

One analyst, who asked not to be named, advised consumers Monday to "sit tight" until the study is completed. However, he stressed that no ill effects have been reported even though the plastic balls are available all over Michigan.

Made In Hong Kong

The novelties, made in Hong Kong, are filled with water and designed to be frozen for use as non-melting ice cubes in Christmas-time drinks. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in Little Rock, Ark., said the balls were suspected of containing bacteria which could cause typhoid or dysentery.

Water is sometimes released into the drink when the plastic balls crack, officials said, and children have reportedly bitten into the trinkets and drank the

Local Merchant Awaiting Tests

There have been no reports of illness caused by plastic drink coolers in the Escanaba area, but at least one merchant has refused to sell them until laboratory tests on water content in the coolers are completed.

Dr. Mary Cremins, director of the Delta-Menominee District Health Dept., said no tests are planned here. She said so far no person has reported ill effects from using the coolers.

Ernest Bernard, proprietor of Ernie's Party Store, 1322 Ludington St., said, however, he has removed the "ice balls" from his shelves until test results are reported.

small amount of water inside. Dr. J.E. Atland, associate commissioner of the Health Department, said he checked with the federal FDA office in Detroit and found that no official warning has been distributed by the government about the plastic balls.

Fluid Tested

But he said news stories from Little Rock resulted in a number of inquiries to state officials. The tests are being run in an effort to clear up the case once and for all, he said.

Bacteria tests are also being made on fluid taken from the balls by the health departments of Kent and Wayne Counties and Detroit.

Authorities in Holland, Mich., said many of the novelties had been sold door to door by a fund raising groups.

Mrs. Margaret Cain, supervisor at Brundage Greeting Card Co., a Detroit mail order house which sells the ice balls, said that the Chicago distributing firm from which the balls were purchased has issued assurances that they are harmless.

Upper Peninsula Wins Hunt Safety Championship

By KENNETH S. LOWE

Lost in the extensive grunting over the deer season in the Upper Peninsula this year was a rather remarkable development: While the Upper Peninsula registered the greatest number of deer hunters in its history, its gunfire fatality toll was held to two, one below last year and one of the lowest totals on record.

The same cannot be said for the Lower Peninsula. During the 16-day season there (the same duration as the season above the Straits) 13 hunters were killed by accidental shooting. Although the Upper Peninsula's hunting army was the highest on record, it still was far smaller than the number who hunted in the Lower Peninsula, of course, but this hardly explains the wide discrepancy in the number of fatalities in the two areas. (Neighboring Wisconsin, incidentally, concluded its deer season with seven human deaths from gunfire.)

There are many fewer hunters per square mile in the Upper Peninsula than in the Lower Peninsula and consequently less danger of accidental killings by stray shot. But stray shot accounts for very few hunter deaths. An appalling number of these killed are mistakenly shot for deer. Most of the remainder are killed by careless handling of firearms.

(In the Upper Peninsula this year one person—a 12-year-old girl in Gogebic County—was killed when mistaken for a deer, and the other person killed during the season died when his own gun accidentally discharged.)

For every person killed in Michigan by gunfire in the past deer season, two (or a total of 34) were injured by accidental gunshots, five of the 34 in the Upper Peninsula. Since the difference between injury and death from gunfire can be a matter of a fraction of an inch, the state's fatality toll easily could have been much higher than it was.

Statistics are often cited to "prove" that hunting is much safer than is commonly thought—safer, for instance, than church picnics or driving a car. But a research analyst for the Minnesota Highway Department has come up with some statistics that refute this viewpoint.

Mandatory Training

Spurred by the oft-made claim that deer hunting is safer than riding in a car, he did some comparative figuring. He related Minnesota's auto deaths to total population and came up with a total of one death for each million-plus days of human life.

Relating hunters' gunshot deaths to the number of hunters, and making the generous assumption that each hunter was in the field for nine days, the analyst found it worked out to one hunting death for every 77,000 hunter days. Even if auto deaths are related only to the total of licensed drivers, the hunting death rate would still be several times higher than the highway rate.

But there is no reason why 15 or so persons should be killed in hunting accidents during Michigan's deer season. Virtually none of these fatalities would have occurred if proper precautions had been taken. That is why the Russell Newspapers put their support behind a proposed mandatory hunter safety training course for persons under 17. Perhaps this isn't the answer to gunfire fatalities, but all reasonable steps to improve safety conditions should be taken, and the mandatory hunter training program is a reasonable step.

Two Area High School Seniors In Math Finals

Final examinations are being written today by two Escanaba Area Public High School seniors, Charles Schmidt and Steve Anzalone, who qualified in the first part of the Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition.

Robert Micensky, High School superintendent, said that after the writing of the final tests today it will be about 10 days before the results are reported.

The two young men were among the top 4 per cent of all who participated in the math contest in Michigan, and 2 of the 1,170 who qualified to take the second part of the test today.

Approximately 26,000 high school students took the initial test which will qualify the winners of both divisions for competitive scholarships to be awarded at the conclusion of the testing.

Pinecrest Is Approved By Hospital Assn.

POWERS — Dr. Edwin L. Crosby, executive vice president of the American Hospital Association has advised Gene L. Marcantonio, administrator of Pinecrest Medical Care Facility that the American Hospital Association has granted approval of Pinecrest as an extended care facility for a period of three years.

Miss Sophie Kaczala, R. N. of the American Hospital Association conducted a survey and inspection of the operations of Pinecrest in September, 1965, which resulted in its approval. She had high praise for Pinecrest as an extended care facility, commenting that of the 38 states to which she is assigned she has made inspections of some 200 county owned and operated institutions, of which Pinecrest is one of the finest, she reported.

The announcement of Pinecrest's approval will appear in the forthcoming issue of Hospitals, the monthly magazine of the American Hospital Association.

Garbage Dump Status Studied

Escanaba's "open dump" west of the city on Old State Road may be permitted to continue under rules of the Michigan Department of Health, which are subject to the approval of a Legislative Rules Committee in February.

The Department of Health prepared the proposed rules by authority of Act No. 87, providing for the regulation of solid waste disposal in Michigan.

The Legislative Rules Committee is scheduled to receive the proposed rules in February, and the licensing of dumps by the state under Act 87 will begin sometime after Feb. 15, said Cletus L. Courchaine, Escanaba, sanitary engineer for the Department of Health in the Upper Peninsula.

Courchaine and his assistant, John Erickson; Steven Sweetey, Delta-Menominee District Health Department sanitarian; and City Manager George Harvey, visited the Escanaba refuse dump Monday in a preliminary inspection of the facility and its operation.

Must Be Approved — "We are hopeful that we will be able to continue our present refuse facilities," said City Manager Harvey in a communication to the City Council. The proposed rules of the Department of Health were cited by Courchaine.

"Open dumps shall not be permitted unless the location and specific method of operation has been approved in writing by the health department and concurred in by the director, and provided further that the isolation and operation and maintenance does not constitute a nuisance or hazard to health."

Courchaine said that recommendations for licensing would, under the procedures established to implement Public Act 87, be required from the local health department to the Michigan Department of Health. The recommendation would be reviewed by the State Department prior to the issuance of the license.

Land-Fill Plan

The Department's definition of "open dump" follows: "A site where refuse is dumped and which due to lack of control may create a breeding place for flies and rats, may cause fire or may produce air pollution."

The status of the Escanaba dump will not be known until February, Courchaine said. The so-called "sanitary land-fill" type of refuse disposal is defined by the Department of Health Engineering Division as:

"A method of disposing of refuse on land without creating nuisances or hazards to public health or safety, by utilizing principles of engineering to confine the refuse to the smallest practical area, to reduce it to the smallest practical volume, and to cover it with a layer of suitable cover at the conclusion of each day's operation or at more frequent intervals as necessary."

The "land-fill" method of disposal has been gaining and even re-gaining ground in Michigan and other states where solid waste disposal has reclaimed waste areas to public and private use.

Area Poverty Staff Trained

Area representatives who will staff the five Community Action Centers in the Menominee-Delta-Schoolcraft area attended a training program last week at Northern Michigan University.

The sessions which ran from Monday through Friday covered a wide range of subjects, including indoctrination in the philosophy and objectives of the Poverty Program, reports Ray LaPorte, director of the Delta-Schoolcraft Community Action Agency.

Beginning this week, the area representatives can be reached in their offices every morning, Monday through Friday, but may not always be in the office in the afternoon since, for the time being, these hours will be reserved for out of the office conferences. Individuals interested in work training programs or having specific economic problems are invited to confer with their area representatives, said LaPorte.

While the main work of the representatives will be in the field of counseling and referral, individual groups having a knowledge of specific causes of poverty are urged to confer with the representatives, who may be reached at:

Mrs. Walter Maunitt—Rock Town Hall; Elmer England—Menominee County Court House; Mrs. Mary Kelly—Cliff's Service Station in Germantown; Mrs. Lyle Bouchard—First National Bank Building in Manistique; and Mrs. Minnie Beauchamp—Leo's Service Station in Wilson.

Kennedy School Outlook Better

Twenty-two children now attending the John F. Kennedy School for the retarded children of Delta County really believe that Santa is a real person, even though he doesn't come in his familiar red and white costume but appears in role of the people of Delta County.

If it were not for these "Santas" some of these children would be institutionalized with each day a repetition of the day before and Christmas just another day. Even parents would be relative strangers to them, say school sponsors.

"If these Santas could only see the childrens eyes light up every morning when they arrive at their beautiful new school, they would feel well repaid for their efforts," says Albert Valind of the Delta County Chapter, Michigan Association for Retarded Children, which operates the school with financing by Delta United Services.

"At this time of the year when many organizations and clubs send a live Santa Claus all dressed up in his furry suit to pass out gifts, their joy knows no bounds.

There is a possibility that in the near future they will receive a new gift, qualified teachers and incorporation into the public school system, if plans of the Intermediate School District to contract to the Escanaba Area School System the operation of this school, so that all eligible Delta County retarded children will be able to attend it.

But even when this happens, the need for these 'Santas' will remain because the State will pay 75 per cent and we will have to supply the other 25 per cent until such a time as total funds become available for this purpose. And, of course, our work will never be done, we must continue to fight for the children in institutions, try to rehabilitate them, and probably work towards a sheltered workshop to help the older ones as they come out of school and institutions or homes."

Hawley Tour Asks U.P. Trek

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley S. Hawley returned Saturday from an extended trip through 12 states doing mission work for the Church of Christ in the Upper Peninsula. Mr. Hawley is a missionary evangelist and has preached for more than 50 years.

They left Nov. 17 and their route took them to Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Searcy, Ark., Bastrop and Pineville, La., Pensacola, Fla., Atlanta, Ga., Franklin, Old Hickory and Nashville, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., Ludington and home. They worked to interest churches of Christ in the South in the work and needs for assistance of the faith's churches in the Upper Peninsula. There are about 15,000 churches of Christ in 22 southern states and some are supporting the work here. "Efforts are being made to induce members to move to the Upper Peninsula and help in the work," said Mr. Hawley. "It is expected that some will move here in 1966."

The Hawleys set up an exhibit at the lectureship at Harding College in Searcy, Nov. 22-23 and Hawley reported at the lectureship. A student and his wife informed him that they were coming to the U.P. after graduation in January.

"There is a strong possibility that a full time evangelist will come to Iron Mountain in 1966," said Hawley.

He preached at Bastrop, La., where his grandson, Dennis Kelly is director of education. The Hawleys reported that they found no evidence of racism and that Negro-white relationships were tranquil wherever they went.

The Crow and the Pitcher

Once upon a time, so the fable tells us, a Crow was tormented by thirst and the only water he could find was out of reach in the bottom of a pitcher. With infinite patience, the wise old bird dropped pebbles into the pitcher. The level of the water rose until it was high enough for him to drink.

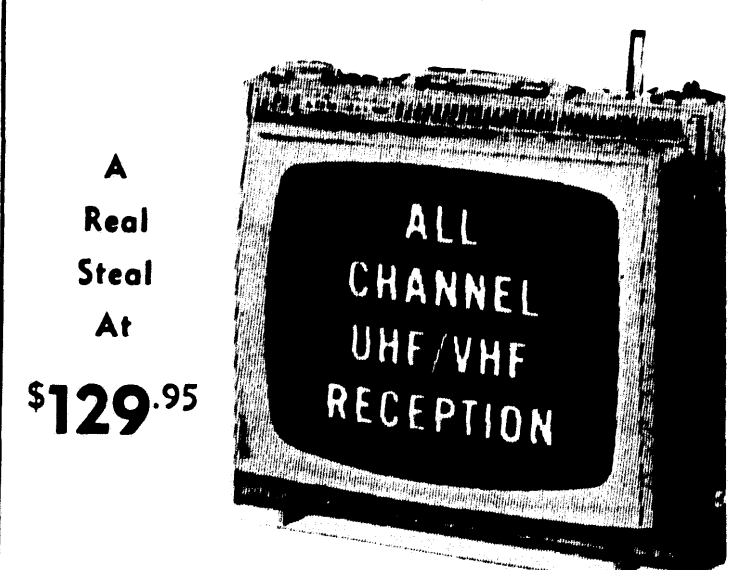

The Sun Life insurance premiums we pay are like the pebbles dropped into the pitcher. They bring our objectives into view. They build up an estate that provides immediate cash in the event of death or which can be used as retirement income.

Why not discuss your life insurance problems with me today? You will be under no obligation.

Managing Our Money

The Senate-House Economic Committee started hearings in Washington this week on the action of the Federal Reserve Board in increasing the discount rate—the rate it charges banks for borrowing funds.

Also this week there will be a meeting in Austin, Texas called by President Johnson to deal with the same subject.

The directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, which serves our Upper Peninsula banks, increased the bank's discount rate to the district's banks from 4 to 4.5 per cent effective Dec. 10. President Hugh D. Galusha, Jr., said the bank's action would tend to moderate additional commercial bank reliance on short-term borrowings from the Federal Reserve resulting from intensified loan demands that might otherwise add to inflationary pressures. (The action has caused no increase in U.P. bank loan interest rates.)

The simplicities of money management involved in this situation are rather easily understandable and should be of concern to Americans. It's their money that's being managed and they'll be told several different things about it by the national administration, representing the political interest, and the Federal Reserve System, representing the economic interest.

The announcement by Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board that the system was raising the discount rate to banks caught President Johnson and Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler by surprise. To say that the President was annoyed would be the understatement of the year. But the Federal Reserve System—the nation's central bank—is independent of the national government and needn't take orders from it. Its job is to keep the national money system sound, so money will buy something besides votes.

The greatest current threat to the soundness of money is inflation, a condition in which money becomes more plentiful than goods and loses its purchasing power. President Johnson, who inherited a boom and who is anxious to keep it going because good times reflect credit on his administration, is concerned with inflation.

That's why he made the aluminum and copper industries rescind price increases. They're inflationary. There are evidences of the mounting threat of inflation. They include—very seriously now—the war in Viet Nam. War is always inflationary, making huge demands for goods and shortening up the civilian supply. Wholesale prices have been rising after 7 years of no movement. The consumer price index was up to another new high in October.

The Johnson problem is to keep the boom going without letting it get out of hand. The Federal Reserve Board read its financial tale leaves and saw the inflation threat too serious to be ignored. It voted 4 to 3 to hike the discount rate. This is an old economic medicine to curb inflation. It makes money more expensive so business doesn't borrow so much of it. Private borrowers balk at paying more interest to the commercial banks and they cancel their spending plans. This eases the demands on the economy by reducing expansion and helps control inflation.

But if it controls inflation too well it kills the boom and nobody wants that. The aim is to strike a delicate balance. President Galusha of the Minneapolis Bank noted that last week's discount rate change was the first since Nov. 30, 1964 and that discount rate increases in 1963 and 1964 didn't stop business or credit growth, but helped to keep the economy within an expansion that was sustainable by the resources available.

Rep. Wright Patman (D-Texas), a dedicated old foe of our Federal Reserve System, is chairman of the congressional committee investigating the discount rate change. He says it was ordered to help the New York banks and that Martin must go. This is an old, dangerous refrain. Americans can be glad that the Federal Reserve System isn't subject to the Patmans of the country.

Senator Jacob Javits (R-New York) dissociated himself from Patman's blasts and said "I think it is very important for the Federal Reserve to maintain its independence." So should all Americans. To trust the soundness of our money system to politicians who will ride a boom until it busts is economic madness.

Richard Nixon put it cool and clean: "A policy that requires business to slam on the price brakes while government steps on the spending accelerator will in the end only produce a collision—and the family budget will be the casualty."

Christmas Seals

Why should I contribute to Christmas Seals?

Christmas Seal contributions are the means by which you, your neighbors and others assist in the fight against TB and other respiratory diseases.

The tools to eradicate TB have been developed and made available—and intensified efforts against TB have been initiated.

In Michigan, Christmas Seal contributions help in providing for tuberculin testing of children and adults; promoting chest X-rays; helping toward the installation of equipment in pulmonary function testing laboratories in many hospitals; providing for health education for your youngsters; assisting in research on tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases; and making equipment available to victims of respiratory diseases.

Last year Michigan had over 3,000 new cases of tuberculosis. Last year there were 320 deaths attributed to TB.

Christmas Seals fight TB and other respiratory diseases including emphysema, chronic bronchitis, asthma and others. Your gift helps fight TB and respiratory diseases through programs of education, service and research throughout the year.

Dead End

There was a time when the predominately agricultural eastern part of Germany was known as the nation's breadbasket.

Today it is known as the Soviet Zone, sometimes mislabeled the German Democratic Republic, and far from being a breadbasket for all of Germany was recently forced to buy $3.4 million worth of wheat from the United States to feed its own small population.

It has been ever thus in every country, including the great homeland of the Soviet Union, where the Communists have imposed collectivization upon independent farmers.

As the song, currently popular among American pacifists, goes: "When will they ever learn?"

Light in the Window

What's Next Move?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Only very slowly is it being realized that a crucial crossroads in the civil rights movement has been reached.

A telephone survey of knowledgeable white and Negro spokesmen in one southern and several northern cities disclosed major elements in what is plainly a highly perplexing situation.

The conviction grows among many Negro leaders that the dramatic technique of mass street demonstrations may have outlived its usefulness as an effective weapon for change.

By the same token, it may well be that, at least for a time, the day of the highly charged militant leader is over.

Dawning painfully upon some civil rights groups (though others always have seen the struggle in this light) is an awareness that henceforth what is most required of both white and Negro America is tireless application to hard, complex, unglamorous tasks which must be performed to provide Negroes with jobs, education and housing.

A leader in an eastern city said: "The civil rights movement has got to be less spectacular and much more productive in the future."

Yet, as civil rights organizations confront fresh choices, they are in many instances deeply baffled. A southern Negro lawyer expressed it: "There is a sense of befuddlement as to what to do next."

A white observer of long experience in and around government said:

"The picture is very, very confused. There are many disparate views among the Negro leaders."

One of the most acute differences has to do with relations between white and Negro America. Negro militants, judged by their public and private utterances, are increasingly suspicious of the white Establishment both in Washington and in cities around the nation.

They do not openly advocate a kind of warfare against the dominant white majority, but their comment—laced with contempt and disdain for many white leaders—often appears to allow little room for accommodation with the white community.

The problem is greatly aggravated by the grudging pace of white-governed change in the Old South and the rocklike persistence of de facto segregation in jobs, schools and housing in the North.

Negro moderates, acting on the notion that the energetic enlistment of the white leadership across the country is vital to cracking the complex problems ahead, find themselves lumped gracefully with the "white enemy" by the more fiery militants.

Some observers, basically understanding long-nurtured Negro resentments, feel nevertheless that these attitudes are flawed. Said one white participant in the recent White House Conference on Civil Rights:

"One thing I learned there is that there are an awful lot of Negro leaders who don't know very much about the white people."

The worst aspect of this particular disparity in outlook is that it tends to underscore all the others.

Negro comment, both as gathered in the telephone survey and as reported at the White House conference, suggests a great absence of answers to the searing question of how to improve the Negro's lot.

The previously quoted southern Negro lawyer said flatly that civil rights leaders are puzzled over how to get beyond frustrating token school desegregation in the South. As for housing, he declared that Negro leaders have hardly attended to the problem in his city, Atlanta, so often cited as a model of racial progress.

The drama is drained from the struggle. The organizers of the marches of 1963 to 1965 do not fit the new movement. Needed on stage are technicians, administrators, programers, innovators. All too few are on the scene and working.

The Doctor Says:

Ways To Treat Phlebitis

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

Q—I have phlebitis in both legs. My doctor is giving me pills and says I should stay off my feet. I've done this for seven months and am no better. What do you advise?

A—Phlebitis is an inflammation of a vein. This may occur following an operation or childbirth, but is far less common than it used to be thanks to the modern trend of getting patients out of bed on the day after. When the deep veins of the leg are involved there is usually some clotting with a resultant swelling of the legs and tenderness to pressure.

There is no simple treatment. Following the acute stage during which bed rest and the local application of heat is required, the victim should apply an elastic bandage. This gives better support than an elastic stocking and is cheaper.

When sitting you should keep your legs elevated on a footstool and when standing you should wiggle your toes and rise on tiptoe frequently to keep your circulation going.

Put props eight inches high under the foot of your bed to facilitate the return flow of blood from your legs. Avoid long periods of sitting such as on a long auto trip or watching a double-feature movie. Swimming or wading in deep water is an excellent form of exercise.

In addition your doctor may want you to take anticoagulants for awhile.

Q—Is the color of a person's fingernails ever an index to his health? Is there any relation between the hair and the nails?

A—In persons with anemia, pallor is sometimes very noticeable.

25 YEARS AGO

Robert Gessner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gessner of Escanaba, an instructor for the last four years at New York University, has just been given the rating of professor and named head of a newly created department of cinema.

Miss Alma Suter was elected president of the Past Noble Grands Club of Phoebe Rebekah Lodge at the business session held in connection with the club's annual banquet and Christmas party at the Ludington Hotel. She succeeds Mrs. Caroline Sundelius.

The Red Cross has a modest request to make.

In order to make it unnecessary to have button-holes in the shoulder straps of overalls, it is desired to use metal garter hooks. About 70 are required.

Every effort is being exerted by the pupils of St. Joseph's School to make the social and Christmas sale arranged by them to be held on this week, a decided success.

St. Joseph's new parochial school was dedicated to the cause of Christian education. STIFFENER

I have just read your editorial entitled "Killing Doe Deer." Needless to say, it was particularly heartening at this time when we are getting so much static from the uninformed. It is unfortunate that the champions of ignorance hold positions of such power—it gives their rantings attention far beyond what their intelligence would otherwise command. Courageous journalism such as you display stiffens our resolve to do what is right.

THANKS

Now that the properties have been returned, the flats have been stored, the costumes shipped back, and the curtain rung down on the last performance, it gives us great pleasure to thank all who in anyway contributed to the success of "The King and I."

We especially would like to send orchids to the news media for their support and several business concerns who also gave their support to a successful run.

It is impossible to measure, but, we of the Escanaba Area Public High School Music Department, hope that through this effort we have contributed to the stature of this community in the Peninsula and our schools in this community.

No Change Made For Veterans Tax Exemptions

LANSING (AP) — State Treasurer Allison Green has reminded qualified veterans and widows of veterans eligible for homestead tax exemptions that there will be no change in the procedure for filing their applications.

The filing dates are from Dec. 31 to the last date of the board of review meetings in the various municipalities and townships. Application forms will be available in the offices of township supervisors, assessors and county treasurers.

As the law stands, Green emphasized, there is no substantial change from last year's exemption program.

Ann Landers Why Do People Wreck Things?

Dear Ann Landers: I know you are not a psychiatrist but you seem to have a lot of answers. Can you please tell me what is wrong with people who destroy property?

I am a junior in high school. All around me I see so much destruction in our school that I am dumbfounded. Last year money was raised to buy a new curtain for the stage in the auditorium. It cost almost $1,000. A few weeks ago somebody deliberately cut holes in the new curtain. I was sick when I saw it.

Yesterday the teacher announced that a typewriter had been knocked off a desk and that it could never be fixed. Kids carve their initials on desks, tables and lockers, and write on the walls. They take seats apart in the auditorium and throw away the nuts and bolts.

Why are people like this? — DIZZGUZZTED

Dear Dizz: People who get satisfaction out of destroying property are angry—at their parents, their teachers, the world and themselves. They are frustrated and unhappy. They feel they cannot create anything so they have an urge to destroy what others have created.

The only solution is to find constructive outlets for these rebellious and unhappy ones. And re-training destructive people to re-channel their energies is far from easy.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is to the heartbroken mother who gave birth to a mongoloid child. I wish someone had written me the kind of letter I am about to write. When our mongoloid child was born we felt that God had singled us out for some terrible punishment. We were ashamed and sick at heart. My mother wept for days. My sister begged us to put the child in an institution. When I asked my father to hold her he said, "No, I just can't."

One day my husband and I realized that we were feeling sorry for ourselves, not the child, and that was the day everything changed.

Our darling daughter is now 11 years old. She is the happiest, most affectionate, the sweetest child of all. We would not trade her for three normal children. She has taught us unselfishness and devotion. This little girl brought us a very special message. We would not have missed it for the world. — ANONYMOUS

Council, School Board To Meet

The Escanaba City Council and the Escanaba Area Public Schools board of education will meet Thursday night in the City Hall for a discussion of the community school program. A report will be heard on the operation of such a program in Flint, which was observed by Escanaba recreation, city and school representatives at a recent workshop there. Making the report to the Council and the School Board will be Luther M. Barrett, superintendent of schools; Escanaba Mayor George Ruseh; and Dr. A. A. Gossan of the Escanaba Recreation Commission. The three men issued a preliminary report in which they noted that many elements of the Flint Community School program already exist in Escanaba, namely an adult education program and the recreation programs at the Webster and Lemmer Schools. Other elements of the Flint program can well be adapted to the Escanaba community; and it would seem advisable to study the situation to determine if an expanded program would benefit the people of the area, it was suggested. A more comprehensive report with specific recommendations is to be presented Thursday night.

In Service

Seaman Appren James Villeneuve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Villeneuve, 325 S. 7th St., is home on leave from the U. S. Navy after completing basic training at Great Lakes, Ill. He will leave Dec. 27, to report for duty aboard the destroyer U. S. S. Johnson at Charleston, S. C.

St. Nicholas On A Horse Is Holland's Santa Claus

By DAVE ANDREWS

Henry Van Brussel Sr. is a believer in Christmas, but St. Nicholas means more to him than Santa Claus.

In the United States, St. Nicholas and Santa Claus have become increasingly synonymous with the approach of the Christmas season. Not so in Van Brussel's home country of Holland.

St. Nick visits on the eve of Dec. 5. And he rides a white horse instead of driving a team of reindeer.

"We don't have a Santa Claus in Holland," Van Brussel explained in Escanaba Monday. "Christmas is largely a religious holiday."

A member of the Board of Directors of Lebon and Visser, N. V., a Holland Oil concern, Van Brussel Sr. extended a business trip to Escanaba to visit his son, Henry Jr., who was recently promoted to finance manager of Goodman Division, Calumet & Hecla. The younger Van Brussel immigrated to Canada in the mid-1950s and remained in Toronto for seven years before coming to the United States.

The Van Brussels explained that, according to legend, St. Nicholas was a bishop in Asia Minor and when his birthday came on Dec. 6 gave presents to poor children instead of receiving gifts. He has since evolved into the Dutch Santa Claus and arrives from Spain each year with all the fanfare and excitement which Santa is accorded in the United States.

"St. Nick arrives in Amsterdam by ship and is welcomed by the Mayor and a big celebration, just as Santa Claus is here," Van Brussel said. "He's just as big in Holland as Santa is in the United States."

St. Nick rides over the rooftops on a white charger, dropping down chimneys to bring gifts to children. He retains the Santa Claus image by wearing a red suit with traditional black belt and boots.

Van Brussel Sr. missed St. Nick's voyage of cheer this year because of his trip—his second—to the United States. He'll be home near Amsterdam to spend Christmas Day with his wife, Josephine.

He likes Escanaba. It's shops are "nice," he says, but Christmas in Holland is a family day. He plans to keep it that way.

Debaters In First Tourney

BARK RIVER—Bark River-Harris High School, entering debate competition for the first time this year, won two of their six debates in the first tournament at Negaunee Saturday. They lost two of the debates by one point.

Nancy Nordin and Jeri Barr, varsity negative debaters, dropped their first debate to Baraga by one point, but went on to swamp Felch 24-12 in their second debate. Novice affirmative debaters, Darwin Adams and Danny Krause edged Manistique by two points to add the second win for Bark River-Harris.

The affirmative varsity team, Ruthann Olson and Linda Shiverski, was edged by Bishop Baraga's one-point lead. The novice negative team, Bill Guenette and Bobby Whitley, lost to Kingsford debaters.

Observers attending the debate were Kris Bruce, Carol Arkens, Kathie Motto, and Mrs. John Krause, who drove several of the debaters to Negaunee.

Winter Carnival Scheduled For Mount Pleasant

MOUNT PLEASANT (UPI)—A winter carnival featuring events ranging from a snow sculpture contest to a snowshoe race will be held in January or February at Central Michigan University, it was announced Monday.

The Mount Pleasant Daily Times-News is sponsoring the snow sculpture contest, to be judged by a guest panel. The newspaper said it also wanted to sponsor a snow princess contest in conjunction with the carnival but was awaiting approval from the university.

Bob Poland, a sophomore from Big Rapids who is student coordinator for the event, said the date for the carnival would depend on snowfall. Theme of the carnival is "fantasy in snow," Poland said.

Student Concert Presented At Soo Hill PTA

A concert by the 6th grade students, under the direction of John Chown, opened the December meeting of the Soo Hill PTA and was very well received by parents. About half of the class of 31 pupils are involved in the band program. Mr. Chown stated these students have been playing only about five months and this was their first concert.

Following room visitation, the general meeting was opened by Mrs. John Whitney, president. The Rev. Carl Fredrickson, a missionary in Montevideo, Uruguay, sent a note of appreciation to the PTA for their gift subscription to the P.T.A. magazine. A good attendance of fathers helped William Sundberg's 6th grade room win the room count award for the 3rd consecutive month. The fund raising committee, headed by Mrs. Lester Kamin, reported that Christmas candy, in colored canisters, is still available and must be sold before Christmas.

Mrs. Paul Bolm gave a report on the PTA Council meeting. Preparations are under way for the Founders Day celebration to be held in February. The public is invited to attend these meetings, the next to be held on Jan. 24, at the Webster School. Mrs. Jay Jennings spoke briefly on the Code of Responsibility for Youth and Parents. The next meeting will be held at 7:45 p. m., Jan. 3, at the Webster Annex. More participation from parents is desired.

Plans for the ice rink are progressing and John Stiglitz stated that with cold weather it should be available by Christmas vacation. The project committee reported on the inflatable arm and leg splints. Because of the distance from the hospital, it is thought that considerable pain and damage could be alleviated by their use. It was decided to obtain some splints and they will be demonstrated at a future meeting. Mrs. Hubert Irving and Mrs. LeRoy Herreau volunteered to work on an outline to be used for the Science Fair, which will be held this Spring.

PTA Magazine subscriptions can still be purchased and anyone interested may contact Mrs. Louis Buehler. Recommendations for the Distinguished Service Awards are being accepted at this time and can be given to Mrs. Whitney. It was decided that a treat would be distributed to the students before school is dismissed for Christmas vacation. Mrs. Keith Mattson and Mrs. John Anderson will be in charge.

A beautiful luncheon, with decorations appropriate to the Christmas season, was served by the fourth grade mothers, Mrs. Stanley Johnson, room mother. Gordon Bean will speak at the January meeting.

Perkins
Air Force S-Sgt. Orville Besson is now serving in Saigon, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Walter Besson. Sgt. Besson's wife and children are living in Detroit.

Use water, not milk, when making up condensed cream of tomato soup; add some cooked green noodles and cooked mixed vegetables. This makes a hearty soup for a noontime meal, but you'll probably need to serve a robust dessert.

Ford's quiet ride is the result of built-in quality and overall engineering excellence. Santa and the Zabbazara Bus

BY LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Mr. D and the passengers on the Zabbazara bus finally reach Santa Land, but the Voodoo man has already arrived and turned the elves to stone.

CHAPTER EIGHT
THE TERRIBLE SPELL.
"The Voodoo man has been here!" cried the little boy. "He's turned them all to stone!"
"It can't be!" cried Mr. D.
He ran into a work shop. It was the doll shop. A dozen elves sat at their work benches. They had hammers and nails and needles and thread in their hands. But the hammers did not hammer and the needles did not sew. The workers had frozen into statues. They were as lifeless as the dolls on the tables before them.

It was the same in every shop. Mr. D went through them all. Even the reindeer in the stables were still. And the elves who stood outside were as motionless as the rest - stopped in the midst of whatever they were doing and wherever they were going.

Tears welled up in Mr. D's eyes. He said it was the most dreadful day in history.
The little boy wept. So did the donkey and the crocodile. But the Fabulous Dunklebum said, "What about Santa Claus? Maybe he's not turned to stone."
"But he'd be the first," protested the little boy. "The Voo-

Santa had never seen so strange a group as this.

doo man hated him most of all. "All the same," said the Fabulous Dunklebum, "I think I will go and see."

He waddled off, his long arms dangling and his lights blinking off and on. The others followed, though they were sure there wasn't any hope.

But they were wrong. Because suddenly and for the first time they saw smoke curling up out of the chimney of a little red house that stood alone in a faraway field.

They all saw it at the same time, and they ran as fast as they could across the field and up the steps of the little red house. Mr. D banged with both fists on the door. He shouted, "Who's there? Oh, speak up! Is anyone there?"

The door opened. There stood Santa Claus! He was plump and ruddy-faced. His eyes sparkled and his mouth turned up at the ends. He breathed and he moved. He was very much alive. "Of course I'm here," he said, as calm as you please. "What did you expect?"

The visitors were so stunned with surprise not one of them could find voice to speak. Their mouths worked but no words came.

Santa was used to strange visitors, but he had never seen as strange a group as this. But he thought there was nothing a warm fire and a cup of hot chocolate couldn't cure, so he said, "This seems to be my day for visitors. An unseen one left me a gift during the night. It's sitting on my breakfast table. Come join me while I open it."

The visitors came to life. They crowded after Santa into the house. Mr. D, seeing the package on the kitchen table, stammered, "Who brought it to you?"

"I did not see him," said Santa. "I was asleep and he left it inside the door." He picked up the present and tore off the wrapping. In his hands was the Voodoo man's jewel-encrusted mirror.

"Don't look!" shouted Mr. D. He tried to snatch the mirror from Santa's hands.

"But it's beautiful," said Santa. He held the mirror straight out to keep it away from Mr. D. The face of the mirror was turned towards the Fabulous Dunklebum and before the poor monster could help himself he had looked in the mirror and turned to stone.

Tomorrow: A Sad Story.

Decision Near On Location Of Atom Smasher

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is getting closer to a decision on where to locate its $280-million atom smasher.

Four-man teams have completed special inspections of the 85 sites still in the running, and are turning their reports over to the National Academy of Sciences.

The academy is to recommend five or six of the locations to the AEC.

An AEC spokesman said the academy recommendations aren't expected before the end of January.

'Tonight' Show Gets Criticism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A member of the Federal Communications Commission said today that some of the chit-chat on late-night television shows is beginning to border on the indecent.

FCC Commissioner Robert E. Lee expressed concern over the situation in an interview with UPI. He said he planned no official action, but hoped to stir dialogue within the broadcast industry which will lead to clear guidelines for decency.

"I don't want the industry to degenerate into indecency," he said. Lee's concern centered on the National Broadcasting Co.'s "Tonight" show, hosted by Johnny Carson. He said he often watched the program, which is shown in more than 150 cities around the nation.

"I don't want to say anything against Carson," Lee said. "He is a great talent and has a good program. But there have been four or five incidents on his show over the past year which would raise some eyebrows."

On one show, he said, movie actor Ray Milland told an anecdote about his use of a pool on a movie set as a comfort station during the filming of a swimming scene.

"I'm not a prude," said Lee. "In fact, I'm one of the greatest dirty story-tellers in town. I haven't been offended and maybe nobody has. After all, Carson has a sophisticated show at an hour when the kids are in bed. I'm not exercised enough over this to make a crusade out of it."

"But I do feel that late-night shows are getting pretty close to the line of indecency and broadcasters might tend to think, 'If we can get away with this maybe we can go a little farther.'"

Lie Detectors Branded Invalid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John E. Moss says the President has set up an inter-agency committee to study the federal use of polygraphs as "lie detectors."

The California Democrat, chairman of the Foreign Operations and Government Information subcommittee, said the presidential action is in line with a recommendation earlier this year from the Moss subcommittee.

Said Moss: "A series of hearings and investigations by my subcommittee disclosed that there is no such thing as a valid 'lie detector,' yet federal agencies are spending nearly $5 million a year to operate the electronic gadgets."

Heart Stops; Razor Blade Operation Revives Son, 19

DALLAS (UPI) — A doctor, who said "something like a sixth sense" told him to check his ailing son, found the boy's heart stopped and revived him today with an emergency operation using a razor blade.

The boy, Louis Spencer Smith, 19, was in critical condition at Parkland Hospital.

Dr. Louis S. Smith said he had stayed up late Monday night, reading and studying. It was around 1:30 a.m., he said.

"I don't really know why, but I got up and went into his room to check him. He had been pretty healthy generally but lately had been having a bad cold and bronchitis and had been weak."

"I walked into his room, checked his pulse, and his heart had stopped beating. I tried to massage it externally, as we do."

"That did not bring him back."

"I cut his chest with a razor and took his heart in my hand."

"I began to massage it."

"His brother, Richard, 17, gave him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. My wife, who was there with us all the while, called an ambulance and the fire department. The firemen brought resuscitation equipment and the ambulance brought oxygen. We maintained the position in town—of keeping heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation or oxygen. That is some position to keep, I tell you, in an ambulance, too."

"He had gotten worse, during the trip. We lost him during the ambulance ride because we

In Service

Benjamin F. Willis, son of Mrs. Louise Willis of 1400 N. 15th St., Gladstone, has been promoted to technical sergeant in the U. S. Air Force.

Sergeant Willis is a supply inventory supervisor at Sheppard AFB, Tex. He is a member of the Air Training Command which provides the flying, technical, and specialized education programs for the Air Force.

The sergeant attended Gladstone High School.

His wife, Alma, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wells, who reside on McCurt Avenue, Fort Worth, Tex.

could not keep his air way open. At the hospital, one doctor finally relieved me. My hand was about dead then—I had been working his heart around 40 minutes."

Doctors at Parkland Hospital took over the procedure with their equipment.

Dr. Smith said his boy had "what is known as a cardiac standstill. That can be caused by a number of things—allergic reaction, or medicine, or poor breathing— from the cold and bronchitis, or an acid-base imbalance. If you don't get it within around eight minutes, then a person is dead. The question is, how long the brain goes without oxygen."

Smith said he cannot figure out what made him get up and check on his boy.

"I don't know . . . it was like a sixth sense."

The Smiths have three other children, a third boy and two girls.

MAKES LIST—The FBI has placed 22-year-old Canadian Joel Singer on its list of 10 most wanted fugitives in connection with the October 1965 looting of the Brinks office at Syracuse, N.Y. Thieves used a 20-millimeter cannon to blast open the firm's vault in the $423,000 burglary.

Newspaper want ads are a big sell! Eight hundred million was spent on classified ads last year . . . more than for all television spot announcements or radio advertising.

$2 Million Job On Shaft Starts

Copper Range Co.'s subsidiary, White Pine Copper Co., has begun preliminary work on the sinking of a new service shaft on the Tolfree Road at the company's White Pine mine in Ontonagon County. The new shaft is part of the copper producer's multi-million dollar expansion program that is expected to double copper production over the next few years.

R. C. Cole, president of White Pine Copper Co., announced that the successful bidder for the work on the new shaft is Boyles Brothers, Salt Lake City. The new shaft, which will cost about $2 million, will be located about five miles from the present plant site. The shaft will be 1,650 feet deep with a 24-foot, concrete lined diameter.

Cole said the start of this project represents the beginning of the second phase of the White Pine expansion program. He said that more than 900 mine department men will eventually use the new shaft when the changehouse and other facilities are completed within a few years.

Boyles Brothers will employ about 45 men in the initial stages of construction. Work will proceed on an around-the-clock, 7-days-a-week basis. It is expected that the ore horizon will be reached late next year.

H. W. Schulze, former mine planning engineer at White Pine, has been assigned to the company's expansion department as mine development engineer on the service shaft project.

Other expansion projects currently under way include the $5.5 million reverberatory furnace, metallurgical laboratory, warehouse, an additional mill section and testing work on the Dashaveyor, a new concept in ore transportation.

Tech To Train More Sawyers

HOUGHTON — Almost a quarter of a million dollars in federal funds has been allocated for five more manpower retraining programs at Michigan Tech, according to Gerald Caspary, coordinator of technical education.

The programs will include three for saw filers and one each for entry level head sawyers and lumber graders. The latter two are repeats of earlier successful programs, Caspary said.

All are authorized under the Manpower Development and Training Act. Total dollar value of the programs is more than $218,000, including $145,298 for trainee allowances and $73,140 for instructional costs.

Dying Tot Will Get Playhouse

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—Five-year-old Suzy Dewey, who is dying of leukemia, will get the playhouse she wants for Christmas—and this time the gift will be legal.

Two 18-year-old Grand Rapids youths, Roger Zoet and Leonard Pechauer, paid fines and costs of $37.50 each in Justice Court at Newaygo Monday for stealing an 8-by-8 cabin which was a landmark near Newaygo.

They took it for Suzy but returned it after police put out a broadcast for the missing "little green house."

Zoet and Pechauer returned the structure to Newaygo after hauling it to Grand Rapids on a trailer.

They knew the little girl and her desire for the playhouse. They told police they spotted the cabin while on a hunting trip.

In the meantime, John Nelson and his Cub Scout pack in Chicago, read about Suzy. Nelson said the pack has a playhouse the boys built themselves and will ship it to the little girl.

Suzy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dewey, Grand Rapids.

Robbers Face Murder Charge

ST. JOSEPH (UPI)—A popular deputy sheriff slain during a bank holdup was buried Monday as public pressure mounted to have his alleged killers turned over to Federal authorities because Michigan does not have capital punishment.

Final rites were held Monday for Deputy Sheriff Elton Stover, 55, in St. Joseph's Catholic Church and were attended by more than 1,000 persons, including many law enforcement agents.

There were 36 police vehicles at the funeral and the church was jammed with an overflow crowd.

Stover was wounded Dec. 3 by submachine gun fire in a holdup by two men at the Farmers and Merchants Exchange National Bank branch at Fairplains Plaza. He died Dec. 10. His partner, Deputy Sheriff Gary Mitchell, 28, suffered lesser wounds.

The two men in custody, Roy Bowen, 41, and Noti Perez, 43, both of Chicago, were arrested in La Porte County, Ind., the same day of the holdup. They are being held on murder charges.

Stover was a popular officer, a member of the board of the Berrien County Youth Fair and a basketball referee.

School Aid Will Be Sent Early

LANSING (UPI)—A $70 million state school aid payment will reach county school districts before Christmas, State Treasurer Allison Green announced Monday.

Green said the December aid payment, usually sent out at the end of the month, was dispatched about two weeks early to accommodate some districts that were running short on funds. He advised, "school districts having immediate need for funds should contact their county treasurer."

Winter Storms Hit 25 States

By United Press International
A widespread storm spread snow across at least 25 states today. Freezing drizzle, rain and fog put the finishing touches on a gloomy weather picture from Oregon to Maine.

The heaviest snow fell across the central Rockies and central Plains. Heavy fog blanketed the mid-Atlantic and central Gulf Coast early this morning. Snow mixed with rain and freezing drizzle fell from the eastern Great Lakes into New England, creating a layer of ice over the weekend's snowfall. Snow Monday night found its way as far south as Mount Wilson in southern California near Los Angeles.

At the same time, another storm churned up rains in Texas and Louisiana. Nearly half an inch was measured at Cotulla, Tex., Monday night.

Heavy rains in a Nevada state park 50 miles north of Las Vegas triggered a flash flood that endangered a movie company on location. No accidents were reported and the cast and crew of the film, "The Professionals," were reported out of danger after they had been caught between streams of rushing water.

Spared By Train, Drowns In Canal

CREMONA, Italy (UPI)—Silvano Masseroni, 29, lay down on the railroad tracks Monday and waited for the train to come and put an end to his life.

The engineer saw him at the last moment and pulled the brakes. The train came to a halt a few feet from the young man.

Masseroni got up, jumped on a motorcycle and rushed away to seek death somewhere else. Half an hour later his body was found floating in a canal.

Kintner New NBC Chairman

NEW YORK (AP)—The appointment of Robert E. Kintner as chairman of the board of the National Broadcasting Company was announced Monday.

Kintner, president of NBC since 1958, will take over Jan. 1, succeeding Robert W. Sarnoff. Sarnoff will move to the presidency of the Radio Corporation of America, NBC's parent organization, in a major executive realignment.

The announcement dispelled published rumors that Kintner planned to leave the organization.

NBC had announced early in September that when Sarnoff went to RCA that Kintner would become both president and board chairman of NBC.

NBC said today that Sarnoff and Kintner, "had reviewed the executive structure and future operation of NBC" and had agreed "on the separation of the offices of president and chairman of the board."

Walter D. Scott, 50, now president of NBC's television network, becomes president of NBC and will serve as the company's chief executive officer.

City May Face Legal Action On Trailer Park

City Attorney Clair Hoehn informed the City Commission Monday they may be faced with legal action by the State of Michigan in regard to the operation of the City Trailer Park.

The state had previously requested the construction of a utility building, complete with showers, toilets and laundry facilities, but since each unit in the park is self-contained the city attorney has informed the state he saw no need for such a building.

The state health code, however, calls for such service within 30 feet of a trailer park.

Hoehn made the statements at the regular meeting of the City Commission Monday night at the City Hall.

Hoehn said he will present a copy of the opinion sent to the state at the next regular meeting of the commission.

William Clark, treasurer and manager of Marble Arms Corp., told the commission that fire insurance rates for the construction of their new building in the industrial park are about three and a half percent higher than normal because of insufficient water pressure in the park. Minimum pressure requirements call for 40 pounds of pressure or 1,000 gallons per minute for a period of four hours for their construction site alone and 50 gallons per minute for the entire industrial park.

When tested, the present pressure at the park reached a low of 22 pounds.

Cost Estimated
Insurance company officials estimated the cost of bringing the water system up to minimum standards would be about $50,000.

Mayor Frank Stupak recommended that engineers from Williams & Works be contacted to investigate the situation and make a recommendation. The commission approved the suggestion.

In other business, Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. was granted easement over section 17 near Marble Heights on the north hill. Final payment for demolition of buildings in the industrial park was approved as was the regular Christmas bonus for city employees.

Dave Vertanen of Chassell, former Rock standout, cemented his position atop the Upper Peninsula individual scoring list by bombarding the nets with 49 points as the Panthers defeated Amasa, 89-75. Vertanen tossed in 21 field goals and seven free throws for the biggest single game point performance of the season in the Upper Peninsula.

Only five Upper Peninsula high school basketball teams lack conference affiliation. The independents are Marquette Bishop Baraga, Gwinn, Rudyard, Amasa and Grand Marais.

Mike Gobert of Gladstone, a freshman, was one of nine former Upper Peninsula athletes to receive football letters at Northland College in Ashland. The others were seniors Jim Kangas and Chris Wangaard of Ironwood, juniors John Packmeyer and Bill Tojala of Ironwood, sophomore Paul Feldhausen of Iron Mountain, and freshman Joe Antonini of Iron Mountain, Martin Dimitrovich of Ontonagon and Quentin Minikin of Ironwood.

Bill Sarnowski, former Escanaba Eskimo athlete, was one of two U. P. athletes to earn freshman football numerals at Central Michigan University this fall. Roger Hewer, former star track athlete at Pickford, was the other.

The Ashland Oredockers set a new Michigan-Wisconsin Conference single game scoring record when they crushed Hurley, 109-70. Three Ashland players reached high double digits, paced by Ryan Hmlewski with 32. Gary Gotta tallied 30 for the losers. The previous conference record was 104 points, set by Hurley in a game against Park Falls in 1955.

Cochesato's Norway Knights, paced by 5 foot 9 inch guard Joe Zuzek, spilled Stambaugh by an 80-72 margin in Menominee Range Conference action. Zuzek tossed in 26 points.

Negaunee handed Sault Ste. Marie its first Great Lakes Conference setback last weekend, 59-48, with a fine defensive performance. The Miners held Sault to 18 field goals and limited 6 foot 3 inch Lynn Swan to 14 points.

DeTour took over sole possession of first place in the Eastern Conference race with an impressive 84-54 victory over the Pickford Panthers. Russ Fountain, 6 foot 2 inch center, rammed in 27 points and hauled down 23 rebounds to lead the Red Raiders to their fifth straight triumph.

A flurry of free throws in the final minute of action gave Marquette a 59-56 verdict over Newberry in a Great Lakes Conference contest. Bob Norbert and Bill Malandrone flipped in four straight gift tosses in the closing seconds to clinch the decision. Norbert led the Redmen with 19 points while Tom Watson paced Newberry with 16.

Although they outscored Rogers City by three field goals, 22 to 19, the Rudyard Bulldogs took a 69-64 setback from the downstate cagers. Rogers City had 42 free throw opportunities and connected on 29 of them.

The Ironwood Red Devils hardly worked up a sweat in registering their fifth straight victory of the season, drubbing Maple 86-39 in Michigan-Wisconsin Conference action. All five starters reached double figures in the first three periods and Coach Gene Farrell played his reserves in the final quarter. Unless Bessemer is Ironwood's next foe.

Iron River's third victory came at the expense of the Iron Mountain Mountaineers, 68-50. Dane Dominici, 6 foot 2 inch senior who has been a varsity star since his freshman year, solidified his conference scoring lead with 33 points. His three game total is 77. Sophomores Brian Ouimette and Rudy Steiner teamed up for 27 of Iron Mountain's points.

Crystal Falls handed the Kingsford Flyers their third straight Menominee Range Conference defeat, 75-51, with the lanky Sackey brothers, Gard and Ted, combining for 33 points. The Trojans, who have won two straight after suffering two setbacks to open the season, face Iron River in a Menominee Range showdown tonight. Iron River is 3-0, Crystal Falls 2-0 in league action.

Pair Of Giants Star On Courts

By United Press International

As big as Clyde Lee is, Vanderbilt figures there's still room at the top.

Lee is the 6-9 senior around whom Vanderbilt basketball revolves, and at the moment he has the wheels spinning higher and higher.

The Commodores, ranked third in the nation, continued their impressive march to the top Monday night when they routed Wake Forest 102-82. It was the fourth straight victory without loss for Vanderbilt.

Lee, playing only little more than half the game, scored 32 points and contributed 20 rebounds. Sophomore Bo Wye-nandt chipped in with 17 points and Keith Thomas added 15.

Kickers High In Point List

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only two of the National Football League's top 10 scorers have scored a touchdown this year, but they lead the list.

Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears has tallied 15 touchdowns, running and six passing to lead the NFL with 126 points. The rookie's 21 touchdowns are an NFL record.

Sayers' six TD's against San Francisco Sunday enabled him to break the old mark held by Jimmy Brown of Cleveland whose 20 touchdowns (16 on the ground and four through the air) this season tied Baltimore Lenny Moore's mark of 1964.

The NFL statistics released today showed that the other eight men in the top 10 are placekickers. Behind Sayers (126 points) and Brown (120) were Fred Cox of Minnesota who has 41 extra points and 22 field goals for 107 points.

Baltimore placekicker Lou Michaels has 46 extra points, 15 field goals and a safety (he's a defensive end) for 93 points. The rest of the top 10 were: Bruce Baaken, St. Louis, 90; Lou Groza, Cleveland, 84; Don Chandler, Green Bay, 82; Roger Leclerc, Chicago, 80 and Danny Villanueva, Dallas, 77.

Rudy Bukich of Chicago was the leading passer with 165 completions in 284 attempts for 2,459 yards and 20 touchdowns. Dave Parks of San Francisco hauled in 71 passes for 1,195 yards and touchdowns to pace NFL receivers.

Jimmy Brown, although held to 20 yards by Los Angeles last week, kept his league lead in rushing with 1,470 yards on 277 carries. Tim Brown of Philadelphia was a distant second with 833 yards.

Three Choices Inked By Lions

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Lions Monday announced the signing of three more of their fall draft choices, including two players from Tennessee A&I.

Willie Walker, 6-foot-3, 202-pound flanker back was drafted by the Lions during the fourth round, and 6-foot-2, 212-pound John Robinson was an end drafted during the seventh round.

Robinson has another year of college football eligibility, but chose to turn pro. He established yardage and pass catching records in 1965 with 32 receptions for 630 yards and eight touchdowns.

Duke Ranked First In Basketball Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Duke Blue Devils are perched perilously on top of the major college basketball ratings Tuesday, fending off serious threats to their position from a half dozen teams.

Chief among the challengers for the No. 1 spot in the United Press International ratings are second-ranked St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, only three points behind Duke, third-ranked Vanderbilt and Kansas, the No. 4 team.

St. Joseph's had an 11-8 edge over Duke in first place votes from the 35 coaches on the UPI rating board but the Blue Devils held a 277-to-274 margin in total points. Vandy and Michigan had five first-place votes each, Kansas picked up three and Minnesota, UCLA and Wichita drew on each.

UCLA, the leader in the pre-season ratings and the first regular-season voting last week, tumbled to eighth place after being beaten handily by Duke in two games last week. UCLA lost a 73-71 verdict to South Carolina but their impressive performances against UCLA, the National Collegiate Athletic Association champ for the last two seasons, carried them into first place.

Michigan, Minnesota and Providence, the 5-6-7 teams in order, also were in striking distance of the top in one of the closest ratings in 16 years. Brigham Young ranked No. 9 behind UCLA, and Wichita, conqueror of Michigan last week, entered the top 10 in 10th.

The ratings are based on games played through Saturday, Dec. 11.

Hawks Unbeaten

St. Joseph's is unbeaten in four games this season. All the Hawks' triumphs have been one-sided although three of them have come against small college teams.

Bradley led the second 10 followed by Iowa and Kentucky, which held their positions as the 12th and 13th-place teams, respectively.

South Carolina moved into 14th and Oklahoma City took over the No. 15 spot. Neither team was ranked last week.

New Mexico and St. Louis tied for 16th. Florida was 18th and Utah and North Carolina State wound up in a tie for 19th.

Duke tests Furman Tuesday night and visits Virginia Saturday while St. Joseph's encounters Albright Wednesday.

West Virginia Coach Resigns

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University went shopping for a new head football coach today with price no object.

Gene Corum, Mountaineer mentor for the past six seasons, resigned his post Monday under pressure from school officials and himself.

"I just haven't been satisfied with the job I've been doing," Corum said. "I wanted to do a little better and didn't know what else to do except quit."

Corum's teams had a record of 29-30-2. The 1965 squad posted a 6-4 chart, after winning its first four games, including a 63-48 debacle over Pittsburgh which contributed to the eventual firing of Pittsburgh coach John Michelosen.

West Virginia President Paul Miller said Corum's resignation followed a two-year study of the school's football program. Miller said Corum was offered a job in the university's physical education department. Corum was noncommittal on accepting.

Athletic Director Red Brown said a successor to Corum would be chosen by Jan. 15. He said none of the present staff was in contention for the job. Corum received $14,000 a year, but Brown said that was not the limit for prospects.

Michigan State Saturday tackled Duke a week from tonight in Detroit.

Five coaches from each of the seven geographical areas of the nation comprises the UPI ratings board. Each week they vote on the top 10 teams with points awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis for votes from first place through 10th.

The ratings with first-place votes and won-lost records through games of Saturday, Dec. 11, in parentheses:

Team	Points
1. Duke (8) (4-1)	277
2. St. Jos. (Pa) (11) (4-0)	274
3. Vanderbilt (5) (3-0)	205
4. Kansas (3) (5-0)	198
5. Mich. (5) (4-1)	175
6. Minn. (1) (3-0)	151
7. Providence (3-0)	112
8. UCLA (1) (2-2)	108
9. Brigham Young (2-0)	80
10. Wichita (1) (3-0)	79
Second 10-11. Bradley 64; 12. Iowa 53; 13. Kentucky 52; 14. South Carolina 15; 15. Oklahoma City 13; 16. (tie), New Mexico and St. Louis 8; 18. Florida 7; 19. (tie), North Carolina State and Utah 6.
